

Karrin Mayfield Felton
 Owner & Founder, Feet Planted, LLC

Speaking / Keynotes

Karrin’s Bio

Karrin Mayfield Felton is the Owner of Feet Planted, LLC, which promotes STEM advocacy, mentorship, intentional leadership, and outreach that prepares early career professionals to succeed. She is a proud geek and motivational speaker with 20+ years of engineering and technical leadership in the private and public sector.

She engages her audience with transparency delivering captivating and empowering content that moves them to pursue their full potential with integrity, good character, veracity, and empathy.

Karrin holds a Bachelor of Science degree in chemistry from Norfolk State University and a Master of Engineering degree in chemical engineering from Clarkson University. Her awards include the Navy Meritorious Civilian Service Award, Marine Corps Systems Command Mentor of Year Award, and the Technology All Star Award from Women of Color in STEM.

=====

Interested in having Karrin inspire your team or organization? Please send all inquiries to karrin.felton@feetplantedllc.com.

Recent Speaking Topics

Know Before You Go: Where Preparation Meets Opportunity

Karrin lets her audience ride shotgun as she shares her Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) journey to include the detours and various potholes she hit (and dodged) to successfully navigate her career path.

Discovery Your Voice in STEM

Lean forward for a practical and transparent approach to identifying and building skills crucial for success in life and in the workplace.

